

special collections

douglas Library

queen's university AT kingston

KINGSTON ONTARIO CANADA

Rivers Langton.

Nº5

Wind M2302 LO 25 5.

Wing 5/7

GOD AND THE KING: OR, A DIALOGUE

SHEWING,

That Our Soveraign Lord the King of ENGLAND, being immediate under God within his Dominions, doth rightly claim whatsoever is required by the Oath of Allegiance.

Formerly compiled and printed by the especial Command of King JAMES (of bleffed memory;) and now commanded to be reprinted and published by his Majesties Royal Proclamation, for the Instruction of all his Majesties Subjects in their Duty and Allegiance.

LONDON

Imprinted by his Majesties special Priviledge and Command, 1663.

F 19 1. 13. 2: 10162

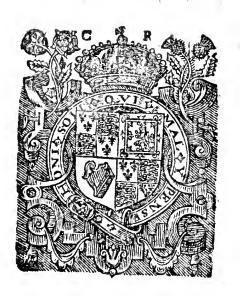

THE

CONTENTS

OF THIS

 \mathcal{D} I A L O G \mathcal{V} E.

- i. He occasions and chief end of the Oath of Allegiance; from page 1, unto page 12.
- 2. The special Heads and Branches of the Oath of Allegiance; from page 12, unto page 14.
- 3. The principal Grounds of the Oath of Allegiance are proposed and established: as
 - First, That our Soveraign Lord the King of England hath no Superior besides GOD, unto whom he is immediately subject within his Dominions: from page 14, unto page 28.
 - Secondly, That the Bond of Al'egiance from his Subjects unto him as their supreme Lord, is inviolable, and cannot by any means be dissolved: from page 29, unto the end.

n. > x

G O D

AND THE

KING:

OR, A

DIALOGUE

SHEWING,

That our Soveraign Lord the King of England, being immediate under God within his Dominions, doth rightly claim whatsoever is required by the

OATH of ALLEGIANCE.

Theodidactus.

OU are well met friend Philalethes; your countenance and gesture import that your thoughts are much bussed: what may be the occasion of these Meditations?

Philalethes. Somewhat I heard this Evening-Prayer from our Pafor in his Catechiftical Expositions upon the fifth Commandment, "Honor thy Father, and Exodus 20.

* Isaiah 40.

thy Mother: who taught, that under these pious and reverent appellations of Father and Mother are comprised not onely our natural Parents, but likewise all higher Powers; and especially such as have Soveraign Authority, as the Kings and Princes of the Earth.

Theodidattus. Is this Doctrine so strange unto you, as to make you muse thereat?

Philalethes. God forbid; for I am well assured of the truth thereof, both out of the Word of God, and from the Light of Reason. The sacred Scriptures do stile Kings and Princes the * nursing Fathers of the Church, and therefore the nursing Fathers also of the Common-weal: these two Societies having so mutual a dependance, that the welfare of the one is the prosperity of the other.

And the Evidence of Reason teacheth, that there is a stronger and higher bond of Duty between Children and the Father of their Countrey, than the Fathers of private Families. These procure the good onely of a few, and not without the assistance and protection of the other, who are the common Foster-fathers of thousands of Families, of whole Nations and Kingdoms, that they may live under . them an honest and peaceable life.

There being so firm and near an Obligement of Subjects in Duty and Obedience unto their Prince, I could not but seriously medicate with my self, or rather enter into some thoughtful admiration, how there should be any so far unnatural, and forgetful of their many ways bounden and inbred Duty, as to enforce his most excellent Majesty to secure bimself of bis Subjects Loyalty and Allegiance by a solemn Oath.

TheodidaEtus. Such is the general pravity and corruption of men, that in most Kingdoms, and Commonweals, there have ever risen some seditious Corabs, and rebellious Sheba's.

Philal. It may be upon some extraordinary provocation by the cruel Oppressions and insolent Tyrannies of Gover-3.975.

Theodi-

Theodid. Nay, frequently, men, onely out of pride and ambition, or out of a blinde and intemperate zeal, or from the effect of both (when they are checked by the raigns of Government) repining discontent, have fown the tares of Sedition against the most vertuous and religious Princes; and ungratefully plotted their ruine, even when they have been most propitious and indulgent towards them.

What Prince was ever more merciful and compallionate then King David, as being fashioned and framed wholly according to his heart who is the God of Mercy and Compassion? yet (a) wicked Sheba the fon of Bichri (a) 2 Sani, 20, lifted up his hand against him, and blew the Trumpet of Schism and Sedition to rent his Kingdom from him.

That peaceful and moderate Emperor Augustus, honored by his Enemies for his Princely vertues, was affailed (b) ten several times by Conspirators. Vespasian, even (1) Suet. cap. 19 composed of mildness and elemency, (c) had daily Trea- (c) Shet, eap, 25 fons against him; and his fon Tities, for his pleasing and amiable vertues, termed by (d) Suctonius, the love and (4) cap. 1. delight of mankinde, wanted not a (e) traiterous Ca-(e) Such cap.6. cina.

But leaving ancient and forreign, and to instance in modern and domestick Examples (as most powerful to perswade, being fresh in our memories) his Majesties clemency towards the Romanifes, and Papal Faction, at his happy Entrance into this Kingdom, was rare and admirable; especially if we consider their disloyatey and sanguinary attempts against Queen Elizabeth of bleffed memory, onely under pretence of promoting their Superstition, whereunto his Majesty was a contiunt and profeffed Opposite, as well as his Royal Sifter.

In the beginning of Queen Elizabeths reign, the (a) Apology of (a) most part of such as were addicted to the Roman Feelestatical Superfition, communicating with us in Divine Service, Hurarch, sup. 1. lived free from all punishment or moleclation, and enjoyed common favors and benefits with other of her Middles

God and the King.

Anne Domini 1569. 11 Reg. Eliz.

Sand. lib.7. de

Majesties loyal Subjects. Of which their practise tho Pope being advertised by some fervent and zealous Romanists, and that hereby in time his adherents would by little and little wholly confociate themselves with our Church, and so all hope would be lost by a home-party, of reducing this Kingdom unto his Subjection, out of which his Predecessors had gathered such rich Treasures. Pius Quintu, to prevent so great a Damage unto the See of Rome, and for this purpose to make an open Schism between his devoted Vassals, and her Majesties dutiful and ciffb. Monarch, faithful Subjects, he sent Moreton, an English Priest, to declare by his Papal Authority unto the then Earls of Northumberland and Westmerland, upon whom multitudes of Popish People in the North were dependant, that Queen Elizabeth was an Heretique, (and therefore that they ought to have no communion with her in civil affairs, much less in religious) because, by being an Heretique, she was fuln from all Dominion and Power, and they were not compelled to obey her Laws and Commandments.

(a) Ston in 4711, 12 Eliz.

Whereupon they railed an Army of (a) four thoufand Footmen, and six hundred Horse, for the maintenance of the Liberty of their Conscience, and the Reformation of Religion, pretending they were driven to take this enterprise in hand, lest otherwise Forreign Princes might take it upon them, to the great peril of this Realm: which Forces were foon vanquished, and onely some chief Conspirators receiving condign punishment for their Rebellion: other Papills that did not partake in this seditious commotion (through the gracious disposition of her Majesty) enjoyed the same Liberty they did before.

But Pins Quintus was neither mitigated by her Majeflies clemency, nor daunted with the ill success of his factious Complices: for being informed that his Projects took not that effect he expected (b) because all the Caville. Monarch, tholiques knew not that Queen Elizabeth was declared an Heretique, not long after he did publish a Bull, wherein, out of the fulness of his Power, he denounced Queen Elizabeth an Heretique, and that such as did cleave unto her 1570, 12 Eliz, should incur his Curse; that she was deprived of all Dominion and Dignity; that her Nobles and People, or any other that had sworn Obedience unto her, Were freed from this Oath, and from all Allegiance and Fidelity; commanding them not to obey her Laws upon pain of his Curse. And that this Bull might be the more generally known unto Romanists, and to gain undoubted credence thereunto, he caused it to be printed at Rome, to be signed by a publique Notary, fealed with the Seal of his Court; and at length. being fent into England, it was fastened by one Felton deeply plunged in the Roman Superstition, upon the Gates of the Bishop of London's Palace.

(3) Sand. lit. 7.

And although these Papal thunders and curses of Pins Quintus were but as (c) the noise of thorns under the por, (c) Beclet.7.8; and vanished like the vapor of smoke; yet Gregory the thirteenth, immediately succeeding Pius Quintus, con-firmed and ratified his Bull, erected a * Colledge at Rome, 14 Eliz. give a Pension to another Colledge at Doway, to be receptacles for Fugitives and discontented Persons in England, to be instructed in School-points of Sedition (as it is manifest by the Books and Writings of their then chief (d) See Bristows Masters and Oracles (d) Bristow and Allen) and from Moives, Mot. thence to be secretly conveyed into this Kingdom, to per-40. Defence, swade menthey were bound to obey the Popes Bulls and Eng. Cathol.c.4. Excommunications, to renounce their natural Allegiance unto her Majesty, and take part with any Domestical or Forreign Power to depose her from her Regal Throne.

The most eminent and principal men of note amongst these Fugitives were the Jesuites Campian and Parsons, who, at the commandment of Gregory the thirteenth. coming towards this Kingdom, defired of him that the forenamed Bull of Pieus Quintus, which hindelf also had established, might so be understood, (e) is to bisde the (Instruments Oneen and the Heretiques (but not the Catholiques) as of this inter-matters then flood, but When there might be had a publifie found amongst B 2 enceution

God and the King.

1580. About this time Parfons writthe Reafons of Refusal of going to Protestant Churches; up-Apology of the execution thereof. With these Instructions they entred England; and Saunders the same time Ireland, with an Army from the P. pe, to fuccor the Rebel Desmond. And as Saunders labored by violence and force of Arms to enthral mens persons; so these, with artificial and plausible on which wif- persivations, to captivate their Souls: and prevailed with ting (faith the many, together with a refufal of communicating with us Ecclesiastical in the Keligious Worship of God, to renounce their civil Duty and Allegiance unto their Soveraign. And thus, by the seditious practises of Jesuites and Priests, this Seperation of her Maje Les Subjects from Di-Hierarchy) when many chief men refused to go to Heretical Sercalled a Parliament in the for Recusants was ordained, but no capital Law made against Priests, or their receivers. Anno Dom. 1581. 24 Reg.

vice, there was vine Service daily increaling, and accompanied with a perilous dissolution of the bond of their civil Obedience; end of the same yet her Majesty, out of her great moderation and incom-Law of twenty parable goodness of nature, impeached none of these repound a Month bellious Seperatifts, either in their Lives, Lands, Goods, or Liberties; but only, by a Decree in Parliament, punished them with a pecuniary mulct for the time they refused to come unto the Church, and published a Proclamation for the Revocation of all such as remained beyond the Seas under the colour of study, to be the Authors of Treasonable Attempts. Wherewith these Seed-men of Sedition were no way suppressed, but rather did daily multiply, and at length grew unto that height of impiety, as to animate fundry 2 2582,25 Elis, desperate persons, and sons of Belial; as Arden, * Parry, and others of the same rank, with hope of Eternal Salvation, to lay violent hands upon her Majesties sacred person: and became principal Agents to incite the King 1383. 26 Eliz. of Spain (then entring into Hostility with this Land) to. invade the Realm, affuring him to have here a Party of Romanists, ready to affilt such Power as he should set on Land, for subduing of this potent Kingdom.

Eliz.

Which unchristian and unnatural Enterprizes of Tugitive Jesuites and Priests, covered with the Mantle of Zeal. and Religion, enforced her Majelty, after much patience

1584. 27 Fliz, and longanimity, to Enact by publique Authority of Parliament,

liament, That if any Jesuites or Priests, made in parts beyound the Seas, according to the rites of the Roman Church, came into this Realm, they should be adjudged Traisors, and suffer as in case of high treason.

All these notorious seditions and rebellions, hatched and produced by the papal Faction, and their chieftains Jesuits and Priests, out of a zeal to reduce into this Land the Idolatry of Rome; and the justice and equity of the forementioned laws, made by the late renowned Queen, to suppress and prevent them, were well known unto his most excellent Majesty: and therefore at his happy inauguration unto this Kingdom, out of his own matureness of judgment, and grounded perfwasion of the Truth, being resolved to tread the steps of his Royal Sister, and by the light of the Gospel to extinguish the Egyptian darkness of Popery; he could not but in his Princely wisdom more then conjecture, that the like disloyal attempts might be practised. against his facred Dignity and Person by these Romanists. Notwithstanding, out of his gracious inclination unto Pity and Mercy, defiring to conquer Evil with Goodness, in the beginning of his Reign he set at liber-1603. ty all Jesuits and Priests that were imprisoned; and unto fuch as lurked in fecret corners of the Land, he gave them leave openly to profess themselves to be such: so that both by a certain day would depart the Realm. And as for other reculant Papilts, refuling to partake with us in the sincere worship of GOD, he frees them from all pecuniary mulc's imposed upon them by the Law, honored many of them with Knighthood, gave them free accels unto his Court and presence, bestowed equal favours upon them with their opposites in Profession. They were not provoked by any tyrannous Cruelty or Oppression unto any seditious Enterprises.

Philalethes. Surely no, but rather had just cause to be truly dutiful, and legal to his Adajesty; who thus did.

change deferved Instice into Morey and Clemency.

God and the King.

Theodidactus. The Mercy indeed and Favour of Kings (a) Prov. 16.15. and Princes, is like a (a) cloud of the latter rain, and werketh much, even upon mindes not well disposed. But some of these Romanists were of so rancorous spirit, and brutish ingratitude, that whilest they peaceably injoyed the fore cited Favours, they did plot a Tieason barbarous for Cruelty, unmatchable in regard of example, the Horrible Destruction by Gunpowder, of the King, Queen, their royal Progeny, and the whole Court of Parliament at once.

Did the bloody Actors of this monstrous attempt alledge no motive or reason thereof?

Theod. None but their fanatical zeal to promote the Romifs Religion; which enraged affection out of charity is not to be supposed to be in all of that Profession. and in wisdom to be feared least it be in some, surviving these offendors: And therefore, to discern the one from the other, the Oath of Allegiance (which hath occasioned this our conference) was principally framed.

Philal. They that will be so impious as to lift up their band against Gods ansinted, little fear the hainous sin of Perjury, and therefore this Oath will not much avail to dif-cover such treacherous Persons.

Theod. An Oath is a most facred Bond, and with a secret terror, imprinted by the immediate finger of God in the taking thereof, doth so straitly oblige the inmost Soul and Conscience, that although many men be obdurate unto other grievous Sins, yet they will be tender and fenfible of the violation of an Oath. Very often (faith Saint centra mendas. Augustine) men provoke their wives, whom they suspect to be,

Adulterous, to clear themselves by an Oath; which they Would not do, unless they did believe that thefe which fear not Adultery may fear Perjury: for indeed (faith he) some unchaste women, which have not feared to deceive their husbands by Wantonness, have been afraid to use God unto them as a witness of their Chastity. In the marital Conjunction of the Husband and Wife, there is a lively reíemblance

God and the King.

femblance of the Obligation of Subjects in civil Allegiance unto their Prince: for as the coupling of the Wife unto the husband in dutiful Obedience, so of Subjects unto their Prince in Loyalty and Fidelity, is a very arct and near Union: and as the (a) Husband is the head of (a) I Cor. 11.3. the Wife, so is the (b) Prince of his Subjects. As there-(b) Isam, 15.17 fore experience in the daies of Saint Angustine taught, that Wives did rather dread wilful Perjury, then undutifulness towards their Husbands; so it is now to be prefumed, that many Subjects will abhor the same crying Sin more then Disobedience.

Philal. But is there any example in former ages of the like Oath for the trying of the Loyalty of the Subjects unto their Soveraign?

Theod. About a thousand years since, the same Oath in substance was used in Spain, and ratified by the Carrons of diverse famous Councels of Teledo: For whereas concil. Toles, n. there was a general report, that there was such persidious-4.can.74. ness in the mindes of many people of diverse Nations, that they made no Conscience of keeping their ouths and fidelity that they had sworn unto their Kings; but did dissemble a profession of fidelity in their monthes (like unto equivocating Papilts) when they held an impious perfixiousness in their hearts: the fourth Councel of Toledo decreed (as also other (a) Councels afterward held in the same (a) cone? Toke. City) that (b) mhosoever of us, or of all the people through (b, Can. 74. all Spain, shall go about, by any means of conspiracy or practife, to violate the oath of his fidelity, which he kath taken for the preservation of kis Country, or of the Kings life; or who shall attempt to lay vi lint hands upon the King; or to deprive him of his Kingly power; or by tyrannical presumption usurp the Soveraignty of the Kingdon: lethim be accurfed in the sight of God the Father, and of his Angels; and let him be made and declared a stranger from the Catholick Church, which he hath protaned with his perjury.

Philal. Hath this eath any agreement and correspondence with the Oath of Allegiance unto the Kings Majesty? Theodidactius. Almost in every point and circumstance, as you will easily perceive, if I shall but read the Oath of Allegiance unto you out of this book which I have in my hand: for the tenor hereof is thus word for · word. A. B. Do truly and fincerely acknowledge, profess, testife and vectore in my confessive before God and the world; That our Soberaign Lord King James is lawful and rightful Ring of this Realm, and of all other his War jeffies Dominions and Countries; and that the 19ope, neither of himself, not by any Authouty by the Church or See of Rome, or by any other means with any other, hath any power or Authority to depose the King, or to dispose any of his Majesties Kingdoms, or Dominions; or to authorise any Forreign Drince to invade or annoy him, or his Countries; or to discharge any of Dis Subjects of their Allegiance and Obedience to his Wajeny; dr to give licence or leave to any of them to bear Arms, raise tumults, or to offer any violence, or hurt, to his Majestres royal Person, State, or Government, or to any of his Majetles Subjects with in his Majesties Dominions.

Also Jos swear from my heart, that notwithsanding any declaration, or sentence of Excommunication, or Deprivation, made, or grantcd, or to be made, or granted by the Pope, or his Successive, or by any Authority, derived, or pretended to be derived from him, or his See, against the said King, his Hrits or Successor, or any absolution of the said Subjects from their obsticate: I will bear faith and true Allegiance to his Hajesty, his heirs and Successor, and him and them will befond, to the uttermost of my power, against all compiracies and attempts whatsoever, which shall be made against his or their Dersons, their Crown and dignity, by reason or colour of any such sentence, or declaration or otherwise, and will bo my best endeador to disclose and make known unto his Najesty, his Heirs, and Successors, all Creasons, or Traiterous Conspiracies, which I shall know, or hear of, to be against him or any of them.

heart abhor, detell, and abjure, as implous and theretical, this damnable doctrine, and polition, That Princes, which be excommunicated or depoted by the Pope, may be depoted, or murthered by their Subjects, or any other what so ever.

And I do believe, and in Conscience am refolved, that neither the Pove, nor any verson whatsoever, hath power to absolve me of this Dath, or any part thereof, which I acknowledge by good and full Authority to be lawfully minis stered unto me, and do renounce all pardons and diluentations to the contrary. And all thefe things I do plainly and fincerely acknowledge and twear, according to these express words by me spoken, and according to the plain and common sense and understanding of the fame words, without any equivocation, or mental evalion, or lecret reservation whatsoever. And I do make this recognition and acknowledgement heartily, willingly, and truly, mon the true faith of a Chaistian: So help me God.

Philal. There is indeed between this Oath, and the former, established by the Councels of Toledo, a perfect hirmome, if we respect the substance of the matter in them, save that the sormer Oath is more general and concise, the latter more distinse and particular. And therefore I would intreat you, for my more clear and distinct apprehension thereof, to (a. Jer. 4.2.

(1) Socrat. Hill. 1.1.c. 25.

N: in Hift.

lih 8 . c . 5 .

resolve it into the Several heads and branches of which it doch confift!

Theod. I shall presently give you satisfaction herein. In an Oath there is the matter or truth which we swear, or the form and manner how we are to swear. The manner of taking this Oath is to Swear plainly, sincerely, and without all equivocation, mental refervation, or fecret interpretation, in (a) fuffice, Judgement, and Truth; otherwife then that infamous Heretique (b) Arius swore, who being demanded by the Emperor, whether he would fubscribe unto the Nicene Faith, which condemned his Heresie, denying the Godhead of Christ; he forthwith vielded hereunto: and being further required by the Emperor (suspecting his distimulation) to swear unto thesame faith, he writ his own Heretical Confession, subscribed it, hid it in his bosom; and then, having a mental relation unto his Confession, he took an Oath that he had truly and from his heart inbicabed. In which perfidious action, the wretched Heretique was either ignorant, or wilfully forgetful, that by (c) what seever art of words any man sweareth, yet God, who is the witness of de inter. Donn. the conscience accepteth it, as he duth to mhom the Oath is made.

(c) Indo. zlifpal. Senten.

6. 15-

The matter or main subject of this Oath, which is the principal thing whereof I conceive you desire to have a more distinct and full understanding, may to this purpose be resolved into these ensuing affertions.

1. Dur Hoveraign Lord King James is the lawful king of this kingdom, and of all other his Majesties Dominions and Countries.

2. The Pope, neither by his own Authority, nor by any other Authority of the Church, or of the Sec of Rome, not by any other means, with any others bely, can depole his egaienv.

3. The Pope cannot dispose of any of his Majeries Kingdoms and Dominions.

4. The Pope cannot give Authority to any

F 03:

Forcetan Prince to invade his Dominions.

5. The Pope cannot discharge his Subjects of their Allegiance unto his Wajeliv.

6. The Pope cannot give licence to one or more of his Subjects to bear arms against him.

7. The Pope cannot give leave to any of his Subjects to offer violence turto his Royal Wercon; or to his Government, or to any of his Wajesties Subjects.

8. Although the Pope thall by lentence excammunicate, or devote his Wajelly, or absolve his Subjects from their obedience, notwithstand ing they are to bear faith and true Allegiance unto his Majelly.

o. If the Pope hall by centence excommunicate or depose his Majesty; nevertheless his Subjects are bound to defend his Person and Crown against all attempts and conspiracies what loever:

10. Af the Pope hall give out any centence of excommunication, or deprivation against his Majedy; notwithstanding his Subjects are bound to reveal all Conspiracies, and Treas fons against his Majesty, which shall come to their bearing and knowledge.

11. It is Heretical and detestable, to hold, that Dinces, being excommunicated by the Pope, may he devoted or murthered by their Subjects, or any other.

12. The Pope, bath not power to absolve his Majesties Subjects from their Dath of Allegiance, or any part thereof.

Philal By thefe affertions thus distinctly proposed, I confels. I do conceive the principal contents of the Oath more clearly then before: But I would not onely have a full and through apprehension of this Outh, but likewife upon any occasion, for the more expedite performance of my duty unto his excellent Majesty, readily remember it, which I shall be.

Hæju amenti

and Jacobus

fir legitimus

227, S.C.

Fer Anglue: Serie, Hiber-

Beca. controv. Angli. sap. 3.

the better able to do, if you would be pleased to reduce this.

multiplicity of allertions unto some femer heads:

Theod. This may eafily be accomplished: There are two special grounds or foundations of true Soveraignty in our gracious Lord the King. The one, that re-Taricsvira funt ceiving his Authority onely from God, he hath no. Superior to punist or chastise him but God alone. The other, that? the bond of his Subjects in obedience unto his Sacred-Majesty is inviolable, and cannot be dissolved. These two general heads (presupposing the undoubted truth of the first assertion [Our Saverdign Lord King James is the Lawful King of this Kingdom, and all other his Dominions! and Countries] because the most * seditious impugners of of his Majesties Crown and dignity freely acknowledge. his Majetty to it) comprise all the other affertions, as even now I se-

* Every English Catholick doth protess be his true and lawful King. Facfons in his judgement of the Apology.

part. 1, num, 14.

verally proposed them out of the Oath of Allegiance. For to begin then with the first head: seeing that when-God would denounce his most heavy Judgments against wicked Kings that transgrest his Law, as against Saul and Rehoboam, he threatneth them with renting their Kingdoms from them, and making their houses desolate; the deposing of a King, the disposing of his Dominions. unto another, the hoffile invading of his Countries, malt needs be a grievous Chastisement: And therefore if his Majesty hath no Superior beside God to punish him. the Pope as his Superior cannot by any means what soever depose him, dispose of his Dominions, invade his Countries. which is the effect and substance of the second, third, and fourth Assertions.

Philal. Doth the same general ground of his Maje-Sties Kingly Sovernigney comprehend the rest of the afsertions?

Theod. No, for they are all contained within the limits of the second principle of Regal Soveraignty, That the Bond of the Kings Subjects in Obedience unto his Muresty is inviolable, and cannot be diffelved. This will be evident unto you by a compendious recital of the chief parts and duties of Allegiance from a Subject to his-

Prince:

Prince. And we cannot learn these duties from a better Master than God himself, who hath so exactly taught them in his facred Word.

The general duty which God enjoyneth upon all men, to eschew evill and do good, is disfused through the particular duties of every man; whether it be the duty of a servant unto his Master, of a son unto his Father, or of a subject unto his Prince. And in the Allegiance of a. Subject unto his Soveraign, the Evill he is to eschew isevill in Action, for he is not to (b) touch him with any (i) Pfal 105. hurtful touch, nor to (c) stretch out his hand against his (c) 1 Sam. 15. facred Person, nor so much as to affright, or disgrace him, by cutting the lap of his Garment: Evil in Words, for (d, he is not to curse his Ruler: Evill in Cogications, for (1) Fxod, 22, he is not to (e) curse the King in his thought. So likewise (c) Eccl. to. the good which he is to do, out of Obedience unto his Prince, is in Deed, by (f) paying Tribute unto him for (f) Rom, 137 his Regal support, by fighting his Battels with foab, adventuring his life with David, to vanquish his Fnemies: in Speech, by revealing with religious (g) Mordecai the (g) Efter 2, . treasonable designments of Bigan and Terest, by pouring out prayers (h) and Supplications for his welfare: in-(h) 1 Tim. 2. Thought, by esteeming and honoring him from the heart, and out of (i) Conscience, as the (k) anointed of the Lord, (i) Rom. 13.

Gods: holy Ordinance, and Minister, and as a (1 God upon (i) Psal. 82. earth: for this is to obey him for the (m; Lords face, (m) 1 Pet,2 to fear God, and honour the King (n); when we fear God, (n) Pet 2. by whom the (0) King reigneth, and his throne is effa- (0) Prov. 0, bliffied.

Now if the Subjects of our Soveraign, out of their Allegiande unto his Majesty, are not to lay violent hands upon his sacred Person, but to succor and defend him even with the Person, but to succor and defend him with their tongues; but to bless him by prayers and supplications, and preserve him by discovering all attempts against his life and 'dignity: not to harbour in their Souls any evil thought of him; but from their heart to hanour him as Geds Vicegerent here upon earth: and the Bond of this Allegiance (as the second ground of Kingly Soveraignty averreth) is inviolable, and cannot by my means be diffelved: then, although the Pope doth arrogantly profume to discharge them from their Allegiance unto his Majefry, to absolve them from their Oaths of Obedience, to give licence unto them to bear Arms against him, and effer violence unto his person, to excommunicate and depose his Majesty; all these improus and irreligious practifes are in vain; and notwithstanding, they are not to depose, or murther his Majesty, or any way to offer vioience unto his facred Person, Crown, and Dignity; but to defend him against all Conspiracies, to reveal all Trensons against his Majesty, and bear unto him faith and true Allegiance.

God and the King.

Philalethes. I do now fully conceive how the two props and pillars of Supreme Authority in his excellent Majesty, Which you have proposed, do briesty and as it were by way of Epitome, comprise all the chief and material. points of the Oath: and alchorgh I am most assured in my Conscience of their firmness and immoveable Stability in the truth; yet to be the more enabled for the justifying of them unto others. I would request you to hew bow these pillars are supported, and upon what foundations they are built.

Theod. Hereunto I do willingly condescend, and will first. discover unto you the foundations of the first Prop, or Pillar; Our Soveraign Lord King & AMES, receiving his Authority onely from God, bath no Superior to chaftife and punish him but Ged alone. The ancient practice of this Kingdom is clear for this?

Truth: Bracton, * twenty years chief fustice under Henry the third, in his * Customs of England saith: There are under the King freemen, and servants are subject unto his power, as also what soever is under him; and he him-Frest Cub nu!- self is subject to no man, but onely unto God. And again, if there be any offence committed by him, for a smuch as there is no breve to entorce or constrain him, there may be furplication made that he would correct and amend his fault: which if he shall not do it is abundantly sufficient punishment for him that he is to expelt God a revenger : for no man. may presume, * judicially to examine his doings, much less Discincie. to oppose them by Force and Violence. And this is no other. Kingly Soveraignty then God himself hath given unto his Majesty: I counsel thee (soith God by the mouth of (p) So- () Eccl. 8. lomon) to keep the Kings Commandment, and that in regard of the Oath of God: be not hasty to go out of his sight, stand not in an evil thing, for he doth what soever pleaseth Where the Word of a King is, there is power; and who may fay unto him, what dost thou? An evident teltimony, that as Kings are subject unto God, whom (q) we are (q) Ass 5. to obey rather then men; so they are subject onely unto God, and have no mortal man their Superior, who may require of them an account of their doings, and punishthem by any judicial Sentence.

° Fall. 1 Chickey 1200101.35.

1.0 D.O.

. And this divine Verity was not onely taught by Solomon, but likewise by his father David; who, out of a. Confideration of the eminency of this Regal Authority, fubject onely unto the severe Judgment of God, poureth (r) Pfal. 51. 67 out before him this penitent Confession: (r) Against the e, "Appleg. Daagainst thee onely have I sinned. Against thee enely: for videan Action against thee onely have I sinned. he was a King (faith * Ambrole) not bound unto Law, Section Pf. 1. becames Kings are free from the bond of Crimes, and are not do agree de called unto punishment by any Law, being safe by the power not. Casiod. Beof Command: therefore David sinned not against man, un- ta. Glossa. erd. Enhymi in 51. to whom he was not obnoxious, in regard of Publishmert : Fr. Dydimus, but of Admonition onely, and Reproof, uttered in the Gril, Niceras in-Name, and by the Authority of God himfelf.

. Hereupon the Prophet Nathan, having used this Pre- Leo 4, 2, 9,7,6, face (Thus, faith the Lord) adminished King David that Not so competence, 2 Sam, 12: be sould expiate his sin by Repentance, but he gave no sentence against him whereby according to the Law he might be adjudged unto Deuth. For if Nathan had given any such sentence against David, he should have had. power to deprive him of his Life, and so of that which. he enjoyed by his Life, his Regal Authority; which God only can take away from Princes, because he alone bestoweth it upon them.

in 50. Pfalmos.

For from whence have they received their Soveraignty to be here upon earth as gods over men? God'himself answereth, (f) I (and not any creature what soever) have () Pfal; 82, faid, ye are are Gods: and as by my Word the world was made; so are ye appointed by the same Word to rule "the world. Who hath given unto them their Kingdoms?

the most High, (t) he ruleth in the kingdom of men, and (Dan. 4. giveth it to whomfoever he will. What power hath seated them in their Thrones? The power of the Almighty, (n) Reges (as the vulgar Translation readeth it) collocat (:) Job 36. in folio, he placeth Kings in the Throne. And by whom ado they fivay their Scepters, and govern their Kingdoms?

By Gods special Authority, (x) by me (saith God himself) (a) Prov. 8. do Kings reign, and decree justice, by his immediate power who is (y) Lord and King of all the earth. And to de-(·) Pfal. 47. fcend unto particulars, Doth not God by the mouth of his

(3) 2 Sam. 12. Prophet Nathan tell David, (2) I ancinted thee King over Ifrael? doth not Solomon acknowledge, that (a) the Lord (a) 1 King.2.

hathestablished him, and set him on the throne of his father David? was it not the faying of the Prophet Ahija in the

(b) 1 King, 11, person of God unto Feroboam, (b) I will give the kingdom unto thee? Neither the kingdom only, and the power of Princes, but all things else proper unto them, are after a preuliar manner Gods. Their (c) Crown, their (d) A-(Pfal,21. (A) Pial, 89. (1) 2 Chron, 9, nointing, their (e) Scepter and Throne are Gods; and their persons, adorned with all these, are so Divine and Sacred, that they themselves are the (f) Angels of God. (f, 2 Sam.14. (g) Pial, 82.

and (g) fins of the most High.

Philal. If the Persons of Princes are so Sacred, and their Authority is thus wholly from God, bow is it said in the boly Scriptures that some of the Kings even now mentioned were made by the people, and so received their Regal power from them, and by their Election? Is it not said of Saul.

(1) = Sam. 11. (h) that all the people went to Gilgal, and there made him King before the Lord? of David, (i) the men of fu-(:, 2 Sam.5. dah anointed David king of Judah, the Elders of Israel anointed David king over Ilrael?

Theod.

Theodidattus. k Zadék the Priest and Nachan the Pro-k i King t. phet anointed Solomon King, and the Lord also anointed him, otherwise he had not been the Lords anointed, but the anointed of Zadok and Nathan. The Lord anointed Solomon as Master of the substance, and gave unto him his Regal power; Zadok and Nathan anointed Solomon, as Master of the ceremony, and declared that God had given unto him this power. For outward unction doth not confer upon Kings their authority (when without it 1 Cyrus, and 1 Esay 45-before the use thereof some of the m Patriarchs over their families were the anointed of the Lord), but it is a sign only of Sovereignty, because if we poure oyl into the lame vessel withany other liquor, it will be alway uppermost.

The Elders then of fuach and Israel a anointing Da-n 2 Sam. 2vid King, did manifest him to be their King; but did not give unto him the right unto his Kingdom, this was only from the . Lords appointing.

In like manner Saul first P anointed by the Lord to be PI Sam, 10. Captain over his Inheritance, upon the Petition of the people 9 fet a King over them by the Lord, and chosen im- 4 Ibid. mediately by God to be a King, as " Matthius was to be Allen. an Aposse by casting lots; God made him King; he only gave unto him Kingly power, and not the people: who it Sam to notwithllanding after all this, are faid to make him King xylor by approving him as made by God, and receiving him in- continue reconto the possession of his Kingdom to exercise his Regal au- of verbum to the thority, whom the sons of Belial had rejected. The peo- our efforts are liple then made Saul King, not by giving unto him the right com aftioners, preof his Kingdom, but by putting him into the possession of one regame; & his Kingdom to reign over them: For the Jewes by Gods extreme pulphaspecial commandement being to make such a one King, ten; qualitationes, whom their Lord God had chosen, unto whom their Lord getestaten exce-God had given Regal Authority; from their Lord God, it is least Emiand not from themselves, from heaven and not from earth, the last to he had to was the Soveraignty of their Princes. t Deuc. : 7.

For as in the Spiritual Graces which God mercifully beflowerh upon the faithful, neither the outward ministry of Paul in planting, nor of Apollo in matring, is any thing, but u i Cor. 3.

God

u God giveth the encrease: So in the civil power which God vouchsafeth unto Princes, the people are not any thing in regard of giving this Authority, but God only is the free Donor thereof.

Philale. Although the power of Princes is not from the people; yet it is often derived unto them from their noble Progenitors by succession, or obtained through their own prowesse; and by lawful conquest: how then is it onely, and immediately from God?

Theodidactus. Succession, and lawful conquest are Titles whereby Princes receive their Authority, they are not the original, and immediate fountain of this Authority. Heat, moisture, cold, driness, and our temper arising from them (whiles we are miraculously fashioned in our mothers womb) are preparations whereby our bodies are made fit receptacles for our fouls; but the y Creator of our foul So Princes have just claim unto their Sovereign power by the titles of succession & conquest; but the prime Author of their power is God. Inde illis est potestas z Apologet.c.30.

Her.

y Eccles, 12.

(saith 2 Tertullian) unde spiritus: thence have they their 2 Lib. 5. cont. power whence their spirit. And before him 2 Ireneus: Cujus jussuntur homines, ejus jussus tutuntur Princiges: By whose appointment they are born men and made b Lombard. 1.2. reasonable creatures (and that is by God only who b infu-Sentent. distinct feth into them their foul by creating it) by his appoint.

17.

ment are they made Princes. And as they receive their power only from God, so for the good or evil administration thereof, they are accountable only unto God, as unto their Superiour, and not unto any mortal creature. God only maketh them Kings, and God only can unmake them, and deject them from their Thrones.

Philalethes. Were not the Priests amongst the Jewes Superiours unto their Kings to judge, and dethrone them.

if they were delinquent?

Theodidactus. No, rather Priests were subject unto Kings, and punished by them for their offences. c Abimelek the Priest acknowledged himself King Sauls servant. Let not the King impute any thing unto his servant, saith Abimelek, speaking.

e i Sin. 22.

speaking of himself. And again unto King Saul: thy servant knew nothing of this. And lest it might be thought that these words were uttered by a timerous spirit, unto Saul a d Tyrant; David a religious e Prince calleth Zadok the Priest di King. I. his servant. Neither was Solomon behind David his father et King. 2. in the knowledg of his Sovereign authority over Priefis, when he depoted Abiathar, the high Priest, and placed Zadok in his room.

Philalethes. Indeed the f text faith, Solomon cast out A- f 1 King :. biathar from being a Priest unto the Lord: but some attribute this fact of deposition unto Solomon as he was a Prophet: because it immediatly followeth in the same text, that he might fulfil the words of the Lord against the house of Ely.

Theodidactus. The fulfilling of this prophesie was not the motive that excited Solomon to depose Abiathar, but Abiathars & conspiracy and treason with Adonijah: for the & 1 King C.1.2 words, that he might fulfil,&c, do not shew the cause why Solomon did cast out Abiathar, but the consequent of this fact; which was foretold by a Prophet, but not accomplished by Solomon as a Prophet. Men foretel things to come as Prophets, they do not put the things foretold in execution as Prophets: For then the h foldiers were Prophets casting h John 19. lots upon Christs garment, that the Scripture might be fulfilled; Herod was a Prophet fulfilling the prophetie of fere- i Matth. 2. mie, by murthering the Innocents. And many other instances might be given in this kinde, which I pass over, because the main point which occasioneth the producing of them, the subjection of Priests among the Jewes unto their Kings, is ingeniously acknowledged by some of the Jesuits. In the Old Testament (faith k one of the first and chiefest of that k Salmer, 1 40. seditious order under the Law of Nature, or of Moses, Priests & de poiestais ecclestest & sewere subject anto Kings.

Philalethes. I have heard of other Romanists that have exalted the Jewish high Priests above the Thrones of Kings, and that do alledge unto this purpose some particular ex- 12 Chron. 26. amples: As of the high Priest ! Aza i , who with four- m Allen defea. fcore other Priests m valiantly astalled King Oziah Aricken Eng. Ca.h. c. 5.

n Allen. ibid. with the leprofie, for burning Incense unto the Lord; n did o Levit. 13.

* Associate regninds. Bellarin. lib. 5. de Pont Rom. c. 8.

P = King II. lia to be slain, because she maintained the Idolatrous Faveretestlum worship of Baal, and made Joas King in her stead.

Theodidactus. These facts of Azaria & feboida, if they were fince rely related out of the Book of God, they would make little for the superiority of Priests over Kings. For first the Scripture saith not that Azaria violently affailed Ozia, or did by force thrust him out of the Temple: he was 4 compelled (without any force from Azariah) by the immediate hand of God, striking him with leprose, to go out thence. And when it is said * Azariah the chief Priest with others caused Ozia hastily to depart from the Temple, this (as * fefephus * Antiquitet. doth restifie) was only by words and admonition. Indeic. 1.9.0.1 1 whom Cejetan * Chrysostome giveth the reason, For the office of a Priest is doth follow only to reprove and freely to admonify, not to move arms, nor pron the 2 Chro. 26. visate wfe bucklers, nor to shake alaunce, neither to bend a bowe, nor lepra Sacerdones to shoot forth darts, but onely to argue and freely to admonifu. Regem leprofum Neither did Azaria deprive Ozia of his Kingly authoriad feftine egrety, which he held unto his death: for he was f fixteen years diendum monent * De verb. Isia old when he was made King, raigned two and fifty years, and 21d. Dom. Ho.4. * died being threescore and eight years old. And although by reason of his Leprosie t dwelling apart according unto f 2 King. 15, * 70 (eph 110.9. the prescript of the " Law, his Son Jotham was his vicege-Antiq. eap. 11. 32 Kings 15, rent to x rule the Kings house and the people of the Land: yet until Oziay mas buried with his Fathers fotham raigns u Levit. 13. ed not in his flead, he had not the right of the Kingdome. z 2Chro. 26.21 y Ibid. ver f. 23.

Philalethes. You have given a sufficient answer unto this example of Azaria; but the other of Jehoida seemeth to have more difficulty.

Theodidattrs. In this instance likewise I shall, I trust, ea2 Kings 8. fily give you satisfaction, if you will but call unto mind, first 3 2 Kings 9. how Abazia 2 son of Joram, and a King of Judah, dying, his 3 2 Kings 11. mother 6 Athalia stem all the Kings feed save Joas the son of Ahazia, whom e Jehosheba his Aunt, and Wife unto Je-e2 King, 11.12. hoida the high Priest had stollen from among the Kings Sons that should be slain, and hid him in the house of the Lord hx years.

Secondly, That Jebsida not as high Priest, but as Joan's Uncle by marriage, and a Protector over him by reason of this alliance; and not alone, but d with the Captains of hun-d 2Chron.23. dreds, with the Levites out of all Cities, and with the chief fathers of Israel, brought forth Joas King Ahazias son, did put upon him the Grown, and declared him to be King who was rightfully so, both by the title of succession, and e 2 Chron 23. Gods own special appointment.

f Thirdly, After they had thus feated for in his Regal for Chron. 3. Throne, by his authority, feboida commanded Athalia as 14-15.

a bloody Usurper of the Kingdom to be stain, so that indeed foas the true heir of the Scepter of fudah, and not fehoidathe Priest, punished Athalia usurping the Crown.

Philalethes. I do now plainly perceive that such as endeavour to advance the Miter above the Crown, the Priesthood above Regal power, have no ground hereof in the Old Testament: yet peradventure out of the New Testament they may alledge somwhat for this preposterous subordination Theodidattus. If Kings before the coming of Christ had supream Authority over Priests and all sorts of men within the circuit of their jurisdictions: Christ since hath not diminished, or embased this Soveraignty. Andite Indai, & Gentes. (saith Saint * Angustine speaking in the person of * Trastat. 115. his Saviour) andicircumcisso, and preputium, andite regna terrena, & c: Hearken ye Jewes, hearken ye Gentiles, hearken Circumcisson, hearken uncircumcisson, hear all earthly Kingdoms; I do not hinder your ruling and reigning in this world, My Kingdom is not of this World, it is heavenly and spiritual. And therefore a Christ hath not made a Him 22 nd Laws to overthrow policies and States, but for the better 13 21 x m. ordering and establishing of them.

Is not this one of his inviolable decrees promulgated by

345

God and the King.

h Rom. 13.

his elect Servant and Apostleh Saint Paul: Let every foul be subject unto the higher powers.

Philalethes. What higher powers?

Theodidactus. Such as bear the sword, to whom tribute * Jesuite Perer. is due. And hence * Angustine, Chrysostome, * and almost disputational all the ancients, have understood Paul to speak, tantum, 13 ad Ron. only of fecular powers?

At the onnes fere veteres.

Philalethes. Who are subject unto these higher secular powers?

*Chryf-st.in 13. Theophil. Oссиmen do accord. i A&. 25.

Theodidactus. Every foul, * although an Apostle, an Ead Roman, with vangelist, a Prophet, who soever he be. This the Apostle Sr. whom The dor. Paul himself did testifie in his own person, who i stood at Cosars judgment, where (faith he) est no live and I ought to be judged, unto whose sentence out of dutie I am to submit my felfe.

And no marvel if Saint Paul acknowledged himself subject unto Casar, when his Master Christ paid unto him tribute, and confessed one of Casars subordinate Magistrates, k Pilate to have power over him, and that given from above.

k John 19.

H.5 13.

Our eternall 1 high Priest, as man, thus humbling him-1 H:5. felf under the command of civil powers; his chief Difciple Saint Peter also writeth unto his fellow Presbyters, m 1 Pet. 5. 2. whom hee exhorteth m to feed the flock of God, that they n Per. 2.15. would submit themselves unto the n King as unto the Su-periour.

Philalethes. These two exhortations of Saint Peter. that his fellow Presbyters would feed the flock of God, and also submit themselves unto Kings, seem to be repugnant one to the other; For Kings that have given their names to Christ are sheep of Gods fold, and so to o obey their spiritual Pastors baving over-fight of them. And if Kings are to obey their spiritual Pastors, how are spiritual Paitors subject unto Kings.

The didactus. PAll the tribes of Israel (and therefore the tribe of Levi and the Priests) witnessed that the Lord had faid to David thou shalt feed my people Israel. And

King

King David himself calleth them his a sheep: Kings then a sam. 14. are also Pastors, and all within their dominions, even David cum dispersion of their fold.

Priests themselvs are sheep of their fold.

Philalethes. This instance doth not satisfie the doubt pletem, sit ego I moved, but rather doth strengthen it: for how can secasi, & ego Kings and Priests be mutually Pastors one to ano-pastor malignes ther?

Theodidactus. After a divers manner. A Pastor, or Shep-boss. Epist 28. hetd (saith the Chrysostome) may with great authority enforce the 2, de Sahis sheep to suffer the curing of their wounds when they are cerd, not willing hereunto, and may compel them to keep in fertile and safe pastures, if they go astray and feed in barren places. Such kind of Pastors by a borrowed speech are Kings, who may command their Subjects by the terrour, and compulsion of corporal punishments. But Bishops or Priests (as the same schrysostome speaketh) are to move men by persuasion state. Spiritually to be cured, and not by offering violence, as Lords to Pet 5.3. over Gods beritage.

As therefore all the faithful are to u fubmit them felvs one unit Pet. 5.5. to another, in Christian reproofs, and admonitions; So Princes are to be obedient unto spiritual Pastors, beseeching them as Embassadors from Christ, and delivering unto them his heavenly message. And if Princes by this message learning what is acceptable unto God, shall by their Authority enjoys it publickly to be embraced, they may enforce the same spiritual Pastors to obey his command by temporal chastisements.

A Prince failing unto some forraignPort in his own ship, and guided by his own Subjects, in this maritime passage he submitteeth himself unto the conduct and direction of the Pilot; whom notwithstanding, if he wilfully erreth in the performance of his duty, he may severely punish with loss of liberty, goods, or life: So Princes in the Church, which the Antients have resembled unto a ship, walking towards the Port of Heaven, they are to hearken unto the meanest of Gods servants, sincerely declaring unto them the sacred will of God; yet if they shall publish rather their own errours than Gods truth, or otherwise offend, Princes may correct and punish them, and they are patiently to obey.

Princes then owe obedience unto Gods direction uttered by his Embassadors for the salvation of their fouls, by reason of which pretious benefit x ordinax Jo 20. rily attending their Ministry, Nothing (saith * Am-* De dignitat, Sacerd cap.3. brose) is more excellent, nothing more sublime than a Bishop. And again, Gods Ministers owe obed:ence unto Princes, and are subject unto their coercive punishments; who are free from all punishments * 4.1 Stafulam, that man may inflict. In which respect * Tertullian in the name of all the Christians in his daies, faith, We honour the Emperour in such fort as is lawful for us, and expedient for them as a man next unto God, and obtaining from God what sever he hath, and only inferious upto God. Philalethes. Did any other Fathers of the primitive Church acknowledg this eminent Sovereignty in the Emperors of those times.

Theodidattus. As many as had occasion to write hereof. * Optatus faith: There is not any man above the Emperour.

* Lib. 2. * Chryloftome saith of the Emperour Theodofius: He bad *Hom.z.adpop. no man equal unto him upon earth, he was the top and head Antioch. of all men upon earth. Y Cyril writeth unto Theodosius y Præfat. lib. advers. Julian the yonger: Vestra serenitati, unto your Excellencie there z In para. ne:: is no state equal, much lesse superiour. 2 Agapetus affirmпи.І.У пи.2 І. eth of the Emperour fustinian, He hath a higher dignity than any man: he hath not upon Earth any higher than bimself.

Philalethes. If the antient Fathers of such different times (for between Optatus and Agapetus there were neer two hundred years) almost in the same phrase of speech so extolled the dignity of the Emperour; when did the Bishop of Rome challenge his pretended eminency above the Emperour?

Theodi-

Theodidadim. Not five hundred years after Christ: For then Pelagins the first Roman Bishop of that name thus Writeth unto Childebert King of France : With how great study and labour are me to strive, that for removing the scandal of suspition, we may minister the obsequiousness of our con- Concil. fession unto KINGS, unto whom the boly Scripture commandeth us to be subject. Neither six hundred years after Christ: for about that time b Gregory the great, likewife b L'l: 2 Epist: Bishop of Rome, religiously confessed, that power was given Epissis. from above unto the Empereur above all men. And then reckoning himself in this number of all men, 'addeth, I being subject unto your command, not out of frined humility, but out of conscience and duty, on both parts bave payed what I ought, because I have yielded obedience unto the d Diod debai. Emperour and not bolden my peace in what I thought for God. Nay, nine hundred years from Christ, the Bishops of Rome were in such subjection unto the Emperours, that even in that age the Emperours punished them with the deprivation of their Bishopricks, if they were criminous', as Otho the Emperour deposed John the 22. for his impure and vitious life.

· Philalethes. At what time then did the Bishop of Rome first so far exalt bimself above the Emperours, as to presume to deprive them of their imperial Crowns, and depose them from their Thrones ?

Theodidatius. More then a thousand years from the Ascension of our blessed Saviour. Gregory the seventh, otherwise called Hildebrand, chosen Bishop of Rome about the year of our Lord 1073, was the first that did attempt this prophane and scandalous outrage against the Emperour Henry the fourth.

Iread and read again (faith Otho Frifingensis an Historian, living near the times of Hildebrand) the gestes of the Roman Kings and Emperours, and & nowbere I find any of them, before this man (Henry the fourth) excommunicated by the Bishop of Rome, or deprived of bis kingdom. And the ill success of the chief Actors in this furious attempt of deposing this Emperour, might well have discouraged

2 Epift 16 al

c Ego juffiani Libjelius.

e Beller, in 6 hroza

f Lego & relego. Lib 6. cap. 35. E JH GHAM HEvenio quenique m ante bunc.

a Ve pergens.

b Sizer. Ains
1084
c Sizeb. ains
1085
F-und this written of him.

d Ch o. lib. 6

the Bishops of Rome in succeeding ages to meddle again with fuch ungodly enterprises. Rodolph Duke of Suevia whom (at the infligation of Gregory the seventh) some of the Princes of Germany had fet up to take the Empire from Henry the fourth by force of armes, in fighting against this Emperour he lost his right hand: and when, by reason of that and other wounds, he was ready to breath out his distressed soul, looking on the stump of his arm, and fetching a deep figh, he said unto the Bishops that were about him. Behold this is the hand wherewith I did (wear allegiancee to my Soveraign Lord Henry. And Pope Hildebrand himself (whiles he was in contention with the same Emperour, to depose him) by the consent of his own people the Romans, b was deprived of his Popedome; and afterwards lying at the point of death, 'be called unto him one of the twelve Cardinals, whom he loved above the rest, and confessed unto God, Saint Peter, and the whole. Church, that he had greatly finned in the Pastoral charge. which was eammitted unto him, and that at the instinct of the. Devilbe had stirred batred and heart-burning amongst men. For Hildebrands deposing of Henry the fourth, was like the Violence of a tempest, which stirred up so many calamities', so many schismes, so many perils of bodies and fouls, that it alone (faith Otho d Frisengensis) through the fierceness and continuance thereof, may sufficiently prove the greatness of mans misery.

Philalethes. Two most remarkable examples! they do clearly illustrate that speech of the Wise-man, Take not part with the seditious; for who knoweth the ruine of them both? But all this while you have declared only the truth of the first principle of Kingly Soveraignty in his excellent Majesty; That receiving authority immediately from GOD, he hath no Superiour to punish him or chastise him, but GOD alone. I would therefore now intrest you to take the same paines in establishing the second principle of his supreme power; The bond of his Subjects, in obedience unto his Majesty, is inviolable, and cannot be dissolved.

Theoxidalius. The principal meanes, whereby the seditious sons of Belial do pretend that this sacred bond may be dissolved, are either supposed crimes in the persons of Princes, as Tyranny in governing, Infidelity, Herefie, Apostacy; or Episcopal acts of the Bishop of Rome, as bis Dispensations, and Excommunications.

Philalethes. How do you prove, that Tyranny in government doth not unloofe this bond?

Theodidativs. Was not Soul a Tyrart, in bunting ofter the foul, and b feeking the life of David, who was most e faithful unto him amongst all his jervants, whom he himself confessed to " have rendred unto bim good for evil?

a 154m 14 19 h I Sam. 12: 13 6 1 Sam, 23, 13 d 1 Sam. 84 18

Was he not a bloody oppressor, in commanding Doeg, without any just cause of offence, violently to run upon e 1 Sam. 28. the Priests, and to slay fourscore and five persons that did mear 18, 19. a Linnen Ephod; to Smite Nob the City of the Priests, both Man and Woman, both Childe and Suckling, both Oxe, Affe, and Sheep, with the edge of the sword?

The blood of so many Innocents did cry unto GOD for vengeance, and by his special Commandement ('Who so sheddeth mans blood, by man his blood shall be shed) deserved death; yet David, not an ordinary or private man, but by GODS own appointment defi med unto the Kingdome, a chief Captain and Leader in the Kings battels, the Kings Son in law, when he had Saul delivered into his hands, and was encouraged by his fervants to destroy him, said unto them, I The Lord keep me from doing that thing unto my Mafter the Leyds annointed, to lay my hand upon him; for he is the Lords annointed: And after unto Saul himself; " Wickedness pro- h Verfe 14 ceedeth from the wicked but mine hand shall not be upon thes: and again unto Abishai, when the Lord another time had closed Saul into bis hand ; Destroy him not, for who can lay is 5.m. 26. 9 hands upon the Lords encinted, and be guiltles ? Which Pious and Religious alis of David towards Saul amiengst the Israelites, Optains hath elegantly described, the E 2

g I Sam. 24. 6

more

God and the King.

albandurf.

more effectually to commend them unto Christians. David (saith Optatus) had the occasion of victory in his hands, he might have cut the throat of his unwary and secure adversary without any labour: he might without shedding of blood, nithout any conflict, bave changed a publick war into a private slaughter. And his men, the victory, oceasion, and opportunity encouraged him; he began to draw his sword, his armed hand was moving towards the throat of his enemy; but the perfect remembrance of GODS Commandements stayed him: he withstanding his men, and the occasions inciting him, in effect thus (peaketh anto them: O victory, thou dost in vain provoke and invite me with thy triumphs: I would willingly conquer mine enemy; but I must rather keep Gods Commandements. I will not (faith he) lay my hands upon the Lords annointed. And so be repressed his hand together with his sword: and whiles he feared the oyl, faved his enemy.

Philalethes. Our bleffed Saviours own precept and commandement is clear enough for the preserving of the lives, or of any thing else belonging to our enemies: Love b (faith he) your enemies, blesse them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that hurt you, and perfecute you.

Theodidactus. You say well, that these words are CHRISTS precept or commandement: our Saviours preface unto them ('Eyw xiyo iui,) I say unto you, it is my decree) do.h sufficiently prove it; and the words immediately following them (that you may be the Children of your Father which is in Heaven) are a most forcible motive to stir us up readily, and with alacrity to yield obedience unto this commandement. Although then Kings and Princes, through their tyranny, perfecution, and oppression, should be our enemie: as Saul was unto David (thine enemy, faith Abishai of Saul unto David,) yet we are to love them from our heaves, to bleffe and pray for them with our tongues, and to do good unto them by our actions. For these duties by our Saviours commandement are to be performed of us unto private men that are our enemies; much more. nusa c 1 Sam. 24.

d Sattator tria
precipit inimicis
schebenda: quorum primem dilizere ad Cov perrunt; fecundum mempe benefacere adopuztertium benedicere; 1. sene
precari o stare, ad linguam, Janfinins. Cap. 90.

b Mar.5

anto publick persons, the Princes and Potentates of the Earth. That elect vellel Saint Paul exhorting us to a 1 Tim, 2. bleffe all men by our prayers, Supplications, and interceffions, presently mentioneth Kings, and all that are in authority, as persons for whom, after a more special manner, we are to pour out our supplications unto God. Likewise Tertullian b teaching, that according unto the Christian SIn Apolegetics doctrine. To wish evil, to do evil, to think evil, is indifferent- cep 36. ly forbidden us towards all men, thence inferreth, if we are not to offer the least of these injuries to any man, much leffe to him that is so highly advanced by our GOD, Philalethes. Who was this Emperour, of whom Tertullian sazaketh?

Theodidactus. It was Severus: for under him (faith cin Cata!

' Hierem) Tertullian flourished.

freaking of the Emperour.

Philalethes. Was this Emperour a Tyrant in kis government?

Theodidadus. Yea, an unbelieving Tyrant, an Infidel, that did grievoully persecute the Christians, whom he did afflict with the fifth famous persecution.

Philalethes. Then I perceive by Tertullians judgement, that not only tyranny, but likewise tyranny joyned with infidelity, dath not unloofe the bond of duty and obedience from Subjects unto their Soveraign.

Theodidatus. You may learn this truthfrom a more ancient and authentick Author then Tertullian, even from the bleffed Apostle Saint Peter: This holy S rvant of GOD writ his first Epistle in the "time of Claudius the Emperour, and did direct it unto his Countrymen the Jews, here and there throughout Pontus, Galatia, Gappadocia, Asia, Rythinia, which were Regions then subject unto the Roman Emperour. For many yeares before Claudius raign, Pompey the great made these Regions Roman Provinces.

And because some Seducers (as & Josephus witnesseth) had persivaded the Jews, under a pretext of maintaining their liberty, that tribute was not to be paid to d S'verus quinea post Neronem perficutione Cariffiaros excruciavit; 000S. & BA-RO: an CHR: 205. Sevilina per fecutions. Bare. to I anno e The Remissing their table of Pcf I Pct. I g Sigm: Commeni: in lb: 2 Supitii. h Tuibicarum An iquit : lib: 18cap: 1 6 lib: 2 de bella Indais:

Celar.

a I Peter 2. 16

Casw, neither any mortal man was to be accounted as a Prince or Lord over them, but GOD only: Saint Pener exhorteth them so to be free, a not having their liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of GOD, and to fear GOD, but yet to honour the King also: And although Magistrates be men, and so their ordinance, in regard of the persons in whom it doth reside, but humane: yet to submit themselves unto them, for the Lords sake, from whom they received their anthority.

Philalethes, This King, whom Saint Peter would have his brethrenihe Jews to honour, and that as Supreme, cannot be any other then the Emperour Claudius, under whom (is you have shewed) Saint Peter writ his Epistle, and whose Subjects were the inhabitants of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, Bythinia, unto whom Saint Peter inferibed his Epistle. And Saint Peter might well term this Emperour a King, because the Roman Emperours (saith Appian) were in all their deeds and actions

Kings.

Theodidactus. Your collection and inference is very firm, and full of truth: And therefore Saint Peter exhorteth his brethren the Jews (himself residing behen at Rome) to submitt themselves; and to be subject unto a profane Infidel, a cruel Tyrant. For Claudius, upon the fight of the least e prodigy, worshipped the heathen gods after the custome of the ancient Romans: he was naturally do merciles, and given to bleod-shed, that he would have tortures in examinations, funishments for Parricides executed in his own presence: he had most cruel searchers of all that came but to falute him, sparing not any Sex or Age; delighted to see the faces of Fencers (whose throats he had caused to be cut, for stumbling by chance in their sword-fights) as they lay gasping and yeilding up their breath: " he was excessively given to the manton love of momen, and was fo inthralled unto his wives and freemen, that, as it was commodious unto themer food with their affection, he granted bonourable Dignities, conferred

160

b Baro, anno 45 Rhemists in their table of Piel. Hift.

c Suet. cap. 22

d Siet. cap. 34

e Siet, cap. 33 Suet, cep. 29

God and the King.

the conducts of armies, and decreed impunities or punish. ments.

Unto such an unbelieving and bloody oppressor, Saint Peter arnestly exhortern the believing Jews to vield obedience.

Philalethes. After what manner? In outward thew and appearance, only of constraint, and because (willed they, nilled they) they were to obey?

Theodidactus. No: for Saint Paul writing his Epiftle unto the Romans living under the same Emperour, a Rhimists it commandeth every soul to be subject unto the higher pow- there table of ers, and not because of wrath, not out of fear of outward Paul. force, or violence, but for conscience like; and for that these higher powers are the Ordinance of GOD, the Ministers of GOD. And this is, as the same Apostle elsewhere salmonisheth, to yield obedience unto them from the heart, as serving the Lord and not men.

Which heavenly doctrine of the Apostles was afte ward often iterated by the Fathers of the Primitive Church in their Writings, least by the fraud of Satan it might flip out of the minds of the faithful. Justin Martyr, in the name of the Christians in his dayes, faith unto Antoninus, an unbelieving Emperour, and a d persecutor; " We only a fore GOD, and in all other depersecutio 4. things (not of constraint but) cheerfully perform fer- sub Anconino. vice unto you: And Augustine: The powers that are, are Pellir, in Chron, of GOD: hence we honour a Gentile placed in power, although be himself, who holding Gods Order giveth thinks unto the Devil, be unworthy: for the power requireth it, and deserveth honour, as ordained of GOD.

Philalethes. Howsoever Infidelity doth not dissolve the bond of a Subject in duty and allegiance unto his Soveraign; yet may not Herefie and Apostacy?

The didactus. Constantius, Valens, Valentiniaxus the younger, were Arian Hereticks: yet we read not that they were rejected by Orthodox Christians as unlawful, and usurping Emperours.

b Rom, 13

c Col. 3 Ephef. 6

c Apol. 2, ad An'oni. Imper.

And

34

a 4ug. 124 II.

And (which is worse) was not Julian an Apostate, an Idolater? yet Christian Souldiers served this unbelieving Lord; and when he said, Go forth to sight, invade such a Nation, they obeyed.

Phi'alethes. Some fay this was for want of strength and forces to relift.

Theodidactus. They could not want strength, when the greatest part of Julians Army were Christians, as it appeared instantly upon his death, by their joynt exclamation unto Jovinian his Successor: For this Army chusing Jovinian Emperour, and he refusing to have any Imperial command over them, because he was a Christian, and they Pagans, ball of them with one voice made answer And we are Christians. It was not then for want of power they obeyed, but rather, as Augustine writeth of them, They were subject unto Julian their temporal Lord, for his sake that was their eternal Lord and Master, and out of obedience unto his commandements.

If Subjects are obliged in duty, and out of conscience, cheerfully to obey tyrannous, unbelieving, heretical, apostatical Princes, as Powers ordained of God, with what alacrity then should we be in all things obsequious unto our gracious and religious Soveraign? Gracious, as being like unto GOD, whose Vicegerent he is in this, that his clemency and mercy is over all his works: Religious, in that he is a zealous propugner of the ancient and Catholick Faith, not only by his Kingly power and authority, but likewise by the learned pen of a ready Writer.

Notwithstanding some are so blinded with the Roman superstition, that they are ready upon some pretended acts of the Bishop of Rome, as upon his Dispensations, or Excommunications, to renounce their obedience unto so merciful and pious a Prince.

Philalethes. May not then the Bishop of Rome, either by dispensing with the law, which bindeth Subjects unto obedience; or with the Oath, whereby they sincerely swear to perform this obedience unto his excellent Majesty, unloose the bond of their allegiance?

Theedidactus.

b Ru'sia. lib. z. bist. cap. I e In Pfal. 124.

Theodidactus. The Bishop of Rome cannot dispense with the Law of Nature; which a from the first begin- a Aquin. 1.2. ning of the reasonable creature is unchangeable, nor with 9.94. Art.5. the Moral Law of GOD, b whose Precepts are in-b 1.2. q.100. dispensable. But the duty of Subjects in obedience unto Art. 8. their Soveraign, is grounded upon the Law of Nature; beginning with our first beginning. For as we be born Sons, so we are born Subjects; his Sons, from whose loyns; his subjects, in whose Dominions we are born. The fame duties of Subjects are also enjoyned by the Moral Law, and particularly (as you shewed in the very entrance unto this our Conference) in the fifth Commandment, Honor thy Father and thy Mother: where, as we are required to honor the Fathers of private Families, so much more the Father of our Countrey and the whole Kingdom. And as the Bishop of Rome cannot dispense with these Laws imposing upon us Obedience unto His MAJESTY, so neither with the Oath we take to persevere in this Obedience. When David faid, I have ' fworn that I will keep thy rightcoms c Pfal. 119. Judgements, if the Bishop of Rome had been then in his fulness of power, could be have dispensed with this Oath? And so if any now, by the example of David, Iwear to keep Gods righteous Judgements of not commiting Adultery, or of honoring their Parents, and Magistrates; he cannot free them from this Oath: but if we violate both these Commandments, we are as well Rebels, as Adulterers.

Philalethes. Are not the Excommunications of the Bishop of Rome of more force to loofe the bond of Allegiance, than his Dispensations?

Theodidactus. These likewise have no power to work this effect. Excommunication upon a contempt unto the Church, doth not make a man worse than an d Eth-d Mar. 18. nick: but you have heard that both Saint Peter and Saint Paul, earnetily exhort us to be subject unto Heathen, and

God and the King.

36

and Ethnick Princes; and therefore we may also yield obedience unto excommunicated Princes: besides, Exe Aquin.infup. communication (according to the doctrine of the 'Romanists themselves) doth not free a servant from obe-942 23. Tolet Inst. dience unto his Master, or a son unto his Father. Sacerd.l.1.c.9 Kings are as Masters, and Subjects as Servants; for so f 1Sam. 24.11 David calleth Saul f his Master, and stileth himself his * ferrant: Kings are as h Fathers, and subjects as sons; g i Sam. h 2 Chro. 19. for so King Ezechias was a Father over the Fathers of his Deputa a mother in Israel, people; even the Priests; and therefore much more over the rest of his subjects. As then Excommunication doth not disolve the bond of Duty between Fathers and Sons, of Service between Masters and Servants, no more > doth it the bond of Fidelity between Princes and their subjects. And so at length I have proved unto you, that neither supposed Crimes in Princes, as Tyranny, Infidelity, Herefie, Apostasie; nor the Episcopal Acts of Dispenfation, and Excommunication; and so, in effect, that nothing can free Subjects from their Fidelity and Allegiance unto their Prince.

> Philalethes. Nothing! The Seal of Confession doth at leaft in part free some Subjects from special Duties of Obedience unto their Soveraign; as Priests from revealing Tretfons, and Conspiracies which they know, as Ghostly Fathers, from the penitent. For if Conspiracies or Treasans be brown unto a Priest in Consession, the Bond thereof doth binde him to 1-Aquin in sup, conceal it, because they are known unto him as unto God, whose Vicar he is in bearing the humble Confessions of repentang Sinners.

Theodidadus. If Priests in Confessions do understand of Treasons and other enormous Offences, endangers ing the publick Safety of the Church or Common-weat as GOD, and as his Vicars; then they are to imitate GOD, whom they would reprefent, in the discovering of the e grievous Crimes. For GOD always doth atter a miraculous manner, and (as it were) by his own immediate 7 ndg. 5.7.

951. A.L.I.

immediate finger, bring to light crying Sins, when they are done in secret, and for a time are inwrapped in darkness.

Did he not by the Birds of the Air detect the Murther of * Ibycus? And because the persons of Princes are * Ibycus ut temore facred than the persons of private men, GO D rift, winder hath made a special promise in his Word, that he will fuit altivolans detect * Curses, conceived onely in the heart, against k Eccles. 10. Kings, by the fowls of the Heaven (that is) after a strange and miraculous manner, if by ordinary means they shall not be revealed. And therefore some Priests of France liave detected intendments of Treason, onely in thought heard by them in Confession: and the Authors of these intendments have been punished with death. A Gen-1Brdin.lib.2. theman of Normandy in France confessed unto a Frier de Repub.ca,5 Minor, that he had once a Resolution to murther King Francis, and that he repented of his wicked purpose. The Frier gave him Absolution, but revealed his wicked purpose unto the King: and after deliberation had thereof in the Parliament of Paris, the Centleman was executed; and the Frier not punished with any Censure of the Church for his detection.

Priests then are in GODS stead, whiles they hear Penitents confessing their sins, not to conceal these sins if they be enormous and dangerous unto the publick State but according to their Commission, (whose fins ye m remit; they are remitted) to declare unto them the re. m John 20. mission of their lins, as they are offences onely against

GOD, and before his heavenly Tribunal.

Philalethes. But the Law of the Church commandeth Priests to conceal all such sins as come unto their knowledge by n C. Omnis uway of Confession.

Theodidactus. This Law of the Church, is but the Law niten. & Reof Pope * Innocent the Third, cited in the Decretals, miss.

(for he is the most ancient Author that the * Romanists * See Valentia.

Tom. 4. dist. 7. can alled ge for their Seal of Confession:) But were it a ...13. p.1.

triuf i; de Pæ-

38

• Mat. 12.

Law of the whole Church, it is but an Ecclesiastical Law. Now if Duties enjoyeed by GOD himself in his Moral Law, as not to do any manner of work upon the Subbath day, may be omitted by our of Saviors Commandment, to fave the life of a beast: May not some things, imp sed onely by an Ecclesiastical Law, be neglected for saving the Life of a King, upon whom so many lives depend? So that neither the Seal of Confession doth free us from any part of the duties of Allegiance unto our Soveraign.

Philalethes. If the Bond of Allegiance from Subjects unto their Prince is so inviolable, that n thing, no not the Seal of Confession, can dissolve it; is there no means to stay the fury of a Soveraign Commander, if he should be so tyranneus and profane, as to endeavour to oppress the whole Church at once, and utterly to extinguish the light of Chri-

Rian Religion ?

p Mat. 16.

Theodidactus. Princes in their rage may endeavour wholly to destroy Christs Church : but in vain; because Christ hath so built it upon a prock, that the, strength and gates of hell shall not ever to far prevail against it, as quite to vanquish it. And when they do labour to effect so hainous an Impiety, the onely means we have to appeale their fury, is ferious repentance for our fins, which have brought this chastisement upon us; and humble Praver unto GOD, who guideth the hearts of Princes like Rivers of waters. You know how before the coming of CHRIST, the visible Church was onely amongst the Jewes; and that, whiles they were Captives under the Persian Monarchs, Assurus at the in-Rigation of Haman, fent forth a Decree to a destroy them all, both young and old, children and women, in one day. Here the whole Church by the barbarous Defignment of Assurus, seemed to be in the very Jaws of Death, yet they take no Arms, they confult not how to poison Assure or Haman, they animate no desperate person r Efth.cap.4. Enddenly to stab them; but there was onely great ferrow

among ft

q Esther 4.

amongs them, and sassing, and meeping, many lying in suck-cloth and ashes, to humble themselves under the mighty hand of GOD for their sins, and to avert his wrath hanging over their heads, by the cruelty of so bloody a Tyrant.

And the ancient Christians, upon the like occasions, imitated these Jewes. For when they were threatned by Julian the Apollata, with an utter Extinction of Christian ty, they hindred and repressed him with their (Nazienz.cra. tears, Laving this onely remedy against the Persecuter. If any 1. in Julian. therefore are oppressed with the Tyranny of their Supream Covernors, let them (saith Sanishurienss, even t Lib. S. ca. 20 in the darkness of Popery) she unto the parronage of GODS mercy, and with devout Prayer turn away the whip wherewith they are scourged: *For the sins of o conders, *Peccara e-are the strength of Tyrants.

Philalethes. To be freed from Tyranny and Oppression in tium sunt vires this world, is a temporal benefit: and many times GOD bearkneth not unto our prayers for temporal benefits. How then are saithful and loyal Subjects to comfort themselves, against the pressures of merciles Trrants?

Theodicities. Their onely comfort in this case, is that which Saint Augustine long since ministred unto them. The rod of sinners (laith he, speaking of wicked Masters and Magistrates) lieth heavy upon the lot of the righteens; but not ser ever. The time will come when one GOD shall be acknowledged: The time will come when one CHRIST, appearing in his bright read shall gather before him all Nations, and sever them, as a Parior severeth his sects from the sheep, and place his shap upon his right hand, and his scatt upon his left. And then thou shall see many servant, and subjects, evenges the sheep, and many masters, and trinces, among the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep, as a subjects and servants are get the control of the sheep.

40

God and the King.

of Judgement, the end of all transitory things, will bring an end unto their forrows.

Philalethes. With this end of all things, I pray you, let us end this our Conference; befeeching GOD so to affect the hearts both of Princes and Subjects, with a serious and frequent cogitation of this last Judgement; that they in Governing, these in Obeying, both in all their actions, and whatsoever they do, may (with Saint Hierome) have the voice of the Archangel always sounding in their eares, Arise from the dead, and come unto Judgement.

De Reg. dy Monacho.

ektoka ektoka

$F I \mathcal{N} I S.$

